LogiCrime

Who was with the victim?
Place each character in the scene using the clues.
Only one person was in the same area as the victim.

One person per row and column: once placed, a character rules out their row and column. Occupied squares (furniture, plants...) are not allowed.

He was standing next to a cactus.

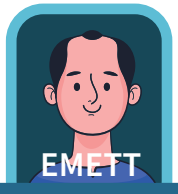

She was in the Workshop.

She was standing on a rug.

She was sitting on a chair.

He was in the first column.

She was in the Sales Area, with a man.

The victim. She was alone with the culprit.

Marcel's Route

Help Marcel find his way home and circle the items he picked up along the way.

List of Items:

Route description:

Marcel takes Leafy Lane and then Hen Lane, turns left at the first street and picks up his hat at the Bakery before reaching Temple Street. At the end, he carries straight on, passes two houses, then turns right. His house is very close, but he still has errands to run. He goes around the Town Hall and turns right into Corner Street to reach Market Square. He crosses it lengthways and takes Church Street. From there, he takes Priory Lane. His house is the 7th on the right.

Solution

True or False?

1 - The tongue has clearly distinct zones for each taste.

B False

All areas of the tongue can detect all tastes. There are no distinct zones.

2 - Umami is the 5th taste, alongside sweet, salty, sour and bitter.

Umami is indeed the 5th taste, alongside sweet, salty, sour and bitter. Identified in Japan in 1908, it corresponds to the “savoury” taste found in stock or Parmesan.

A True

3 - This spice, the most expensive in the world, comes from a flower harvested by hand. What is it?

Saffron

4 - The Michelin Guide stars have existed since it was created in 1900.

B False

The Michelin Guide stars didn’t appear until 1926; the 1900 guide was originally just a practical guide for motorists.

5 - Cut in half, can you recognise this fruit by its flesh full of tiny seeds?

Prickly pear
